The Wright Stuff

A Word from Bob Wright

Wow! What a ride it has been.

I started the American Anti-Cancer Institute six years ago with a mission to tell people the real truth about cancer. By that standard it has been a huge success. With almost no funding, we were able to build an infrastructure that allowed us to register our message with people world-wide.

Our organization, with a very limited staff (all volunteer), has sold tens of thousands of books (“Killing Cancer – Not People”) and counselled with thousands of cancer sufferers – all around the world. Our website has provided guidance to so many seeking the answer to cancer – and multiple other sicknesses and physical disorders. And, because prevention is the real cure for cancer (and all disease), we have been able to provide real dietary and supplement protocols that allow people to stay well.

I am truly blessed and honored to do what I do. God has given me a mission to do something that is significantly important with my life – and I am grateful. Although I am not a doctor and offer no medical advice, I have personally met with thousands of people – both in person and on the telephone – to tell them exactly what I would do if I was in their situation. I have travelled the country to give seminars regarding what really works for cancer – and what does not. Sadly, throughout this process, I have seen many people die, mostly those whose immune systems were destroyed by conventional medicine or some who simply could not do what was necessary to save their own lives. Joyfully, however, I have seen so many live – especially those who were told that they were not supposed to.

Yes, it's been quite a ride. Unfortunately, it is ending.

As many of you know, we have had great plans to build a healing campus here in the Pacific Northwest. We have been excited about the prospect of a place where cancer patients could go to get total care – real care that helps and heals the human immune system – the only thing that can make us well. We received a commitment from a very large trust two and a half years ago to fund this huge undertaking and have been waiting patiently for this to come to fruition.

For reasons beyond our control, this funding has not yet been realized – and we can't be certain that it ever will be. Thus, as many non-profit charities that have come before us, we likely will soon cease to exist.

We have set July 1st as the “reality check” date for us to move forward or close our doors. Certainly, we hope that this trust will make good on its promises by that time – and, there is a chance that this will happen. We hope so. Barring that mini-miracle, however, we will all move on to other things.

Undoubtedly, I will stay in the business of helping those in need by myself as a cancer coach and “truth” provider, or working with some others to continue giving people hope and real answers. We shall see.

Whatever the case, I offer my sincere thanks to all of you who have become friends and supporters over the years. Your prayers for us have been much appreciated. For the very few that provided financial support, thanks so much for believing in us and what we do.

Until we should meet again, I leave you with this: Seek the truth, no matter what it is. Don’t settle for the status quo or the “way it’s always been.” Don’t do what is convenient – do what is right. And know, beyond any doubt, that cancer is healable and there is always hope.

Yours Truly,
Bob Wright

Books to Get

Mother and daughter, both diagnosed with cancer, similar outcomes, separate books.

These two wonderful and beautiful women, Suzie Derrett and Shannon Sayers, both survived and lived to tell about their experiences through their respective works, “All Shook Up,” by Suzie, and Shannon’s “Army Strong.”

“With a little help from Elvis,” Suzie writes about her natural fight against cancer and ultimate victory. I loved this book. Ladies (and guys), you will too. Shannon’s book outlines her battle and is also a recipe book, as well.

I was honored to be invited to write a missive on the back cover of each work. Here is what I said:

“Here is the evidence, folks. The healed bodies that show – without prejudice – what really works for cancer. From expectant tragedy to ultimate triumph, Suzie’s story is a model of sheer will and determination and is both exhilarating and packed with hope – for the rest of us.”

“You’ve heard it said that we are what we eat. Actually, there’s way more to it. Our very longevity and quality of life are absolutely dependent on what goes in our mouths. Shannon’s got this figured out. Read, eat, enjoy!”

Go get these books.

Testimonial

The following testimonial comes from across the “Big Pond” from our International Ambassador, Mr. Kent Lim, in Malaysia. Kent is one of the most active promoters that we have:

Dear Bob:

Fantastic news and praise God for answering our prayers. Please read below from the wife of (name withheld):

Kent, just to confirm what I have told you over the phone just now as you are the first person I called immediately after the Doctor told us the good news – great news! Praise the Lord. X-ray confirms that there is no more tumor at all in my husband’s lungs. Doctor said it is clear as in the report attached indicates (March 6th, 2014 – before the AACI Protocol; and April 22nd, 2014 report after the AACI Protocol). Doctor says we should continue to do whatever we are doing now. Thanks, Kent, for your endless effort to guide me. Regards (name withheld).

Kent went on to say that the doctor had diagnosed this patient with Stage 4 (end stage) lung cancer requiring chemotherapy in February.

As always, we did not offer a diagnosis or medical advice in this case. We simply told Kent to advise the patient what we would do in his situation. The patient followed this protocol (not the chemo) and – you know the rest! One of the main things in this regimen was Kangen Water – both the 9.5 pH and the 11.5 pH. Of course, this water doesn’t heal cancer – no one can say that it does. However, this patient may argue the point. We know, though, that his immune system was strengthened and that is what always heals the body.
